INTRODUCING THE BAY OF PLENTY

Nau mai haere mai ki Te Moananui ā Toi! Welcome to the Coastal Bay of Plenty.

Pull up a beach chair, dig your toes into the sand, and chill.

Nestled on the east coast of New Zealand's North Island, the Bay of Plenty is home to idyllic, friendly towns and cities spread along 125km of pristine white sand beaches.

Here you can kayak across a lake to see a canyon shining with glow worms. You can hike through more than 56,000-ha of native forest, swim with dolphins and see majestic orca. You can even hop on board a boat and visit one of our two marine reserves or one of our 24 coastal islands – don't forget your camera to capture some of the world's most spectacular scenery!

Our place is steeped in history. Our shores are the landing place of the Mātaatua waka, one of the founding canoes that first brought Māori to New Zealand almost 1,000 years ago from Hawaiki.

Hundreds of years later, English explorer Captain James Cook named the region the 'Bay of Plenty' after noticing abundant food supplies in local Māori villages. And the Bay continues to live up to that name with the warm climate making for perfect growing conditions – producing the world's best kiwifruit, avocados, citrus and Mānuka honey.

We invite you to discover the stories, magic and energy of our special place. The time you spend here will leave you invigorated with lasting memories of our stunning natural landscapes and the warmth of our climate and our people.

CLAIMS TO FAME:

New Zealand's best beaches: Mount Maunganui Main Beach and Ōhope Beach have had regular spots among New Zealand's most loved beaches (as voted by Trip Advisor and AA Traveller).

Ancient forests: Whirinaki Te Pua-a-Tāne Conservation Park stretches over 55,000 hectares and was called "one of the great forests of the world" by acclaimed British botanist David Bellamy.

The home of kiwifruit: Te Puke is the "home of kiwifruit", producing 112m trays of the furry green health food each year.

The Kiwi Capital of the World™: Whakatāne's spectacular conservation efforts have seen the population of kiwi soar. No other town has the elusive native bird living in such close proximity to people.

Incredible natural wonders: McLaren Falls is home to one of the best botanical tree collections in New Zealand. The area also boasts the most densely populated collection of glowworms in the country.

EATING & DRINKING IN THE BAY

📍 Rising Tide Mount Maunganui

Te Moananui ā Toi (the Coastal Bay of Plenty) is a foodie's dream lifestyle.

Through our horticultural history, rich seas and volcanic soils, and with a deep cultural foundation of manaaki tangata (to provide and care for many), we are committed to creating world class food and memorable culinary experiences, weaving a powerful connection from our place to your plates.

With traditions steeped in protecting and celebrating the region's natural resources, descendants of this whenua (land) have developed a solid horticultural presence from local trade through to export.

From kūmara, riwai and kamokamo in the 1800's through to kiwifruit, avocados and berries in the early 1980's, the Bay's history of food production has given us a strong foundation for the future.

Today, truffle farms, kiwifruit innovation, a flourishing dining scene, gourmet night markets, farmers markets and pop-up restaurants continue to provide hospitality for our people and our visitors.
